The nervous system is influenced by the stress hormone, cortisol, which creates a state of flight, fight or freeze.

The memory of the event creating this state has to be uncoupled from the body system to eliminate emotional charge and the trauma symptoms.

While we cannot change the actual experience, we are able to change how you and your the body respond to memory of the experience.

TBT alleviates symptoms related to drug addiction, phobias, violent events and other chronic conditions possibly connected with trauma.

Do you or someone you know experience these symptoms?

- Flashbacks
- Hyper-vigilance
- Disassociation

How much better would your life be if you were free of all that?
